WELCOME TO THEIR MAJESTIES ALBERTA GREET'S KING AND QUEEN IN ENTHUSIASTIC WESTERN STYLE

Proclamation Civic Holiday

On the occasion of Their Majesties' visit to Calgary, I hereby proclaim FRIDAY, MAY 26, a civic holiday, whereby all stores and offices will remain closed. "God Save the King."

GEORGE PATTINSON,
Mayor of Coleman.

Bellevue's Big Sports Day Drew Big Crowd

The fifth annual May 24 celebration was held at Bellevue on Victoria Day.

The activities began at 10 a.m. with the junior sports, being largely races and softball games.

At 1 p.m. the grand parade left the school grounds, headed by the West Canadian Military Band, and encircled the main business sections of Bellevue and Maple Leaf. A good lineup of entries joined the parade, chief of which was the special float for the May Queen and her attendants.

The parade reached the Sports Arena about 1.30 p.m. when the big program got under way. A fine line of attractions was scheduled which included special dances from Coleman, maypole dances, choral singing, crowning the May Queen, band selections, etc.

At the west end of the Arena senior sports, which included horseshoe pitching, high jumps, and novelty races, was carried on simultaneously with the platform attractions.

The six girls nominated for May Queen were as follows: Lily Padgett, Gemma Petri, Mary Fantin, Madeline Pavan, Peggy Dowson and Mary Brenton. The winner was awarded a Waltham wrist watch and the second a wrist watch of lesser value.

The big day was brought to a close with a jittery dance on the big arena floor, Hoses' orchestra in attendance.

HOW TO CHEER!

The problem of encouraging royal visit spectators to cheer along the progress route is engaging the attention of officials in Edmonton. Hearty British "Hurrahs"—preceded by a "Hip! Hip!"—are the thing. Stand up and cheer is the way to do it, and once the first effort is under way, the passing Royal Cavalcade will stimulate more and louder "Hurrahs," it is anticipated. Incidentally, the common pronunciation of "Hurrah" is "Hur-ra-a-y," and this will be found quite adapted to the Canadian tongue. Here's for louder and longer "Hurrahs!"

L.O.B.A. CELEBRATED ANNIVERSARY

The ladies of Crescent Lodge No. 599, L.O.B.A., celebrated their anniversary on Friday, May 12, in the I.O.F. hall by holding a supper to which members and friends were invited. The supper tables were prettily decorated with a profusion of lilacs. Prizes at the whist drive were as follows: Mrs. J. Glendenning, first; Mrs. R. Parry, second.

"DANGEROUS DAN MICROBE"

A bunch of germs were hitting it up in the bronchial saloon; Two bugs on the edge of the larynx Were jarring a rag-time tune. Back in the teeth in a solo game Sat dangerous Ack-Kerchoo! And watching his pulse was his light of love, The Lady that's known as "Flu."

Guess you heard what the boss in a large office said as he watched the new office girl stamp the envelope: "There's a girl who holds her licker well!"

HILLCREST SISTERS GRADUATE

The following interesting news note was published in a recent issue of the Lethbridge Herald, beneath the photo of two of Hillcrest's popular young ladies:

On Tuesday, May 16, two sisters from Hillcrest received their degrees. They are the daughters of Dr. and Mrs. G. Blair Rose and have attended the University for the past four years. Miss Catherine Rose received the degree of Bachelor of Arts, and Miss Helen Rose was awarded the degree of B.Sc. in Arts. Both girls have been very active in student activities and are amongst the most prominent athletes on the campus.

MILITARY BAND GETS SUITS

The West Canadian Colliers Band is proud of its new uniforms, and so is everybody else, especially Bellevue and Blairmore. The suits are of a dark brown color with a light brown stripe down the side of the trousers. The caps are brown to match and are trimmed with gold colored tassels. The band made its first appearance in Blairmore, first at the town bandstand and then at the west-end stand. The next day they played for the Salvation Army at Coleman in the Community Hall. Their next outing was at the May 24 celebration at Bellevue where they encircled the main street and played in the arena. Under the leadership of Bandmaster Goodwin of Bellevue, the band hope to have Sunday concerts in the Pass towns during the summer.

GENERAL ITEMS

Mr. Tony Lesson of Hillcrest is progressing favorably in the Bellevue Hospital after his operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. H. Kaye, Bellevue, is at present visiting her daughter, Viola, at Victoria, B.C. Miss Kaye has graduated from the Royal Jubilee Hospital in Victoria.

FRIDAY, (to-morrow) from 3 p.m. till 5 p.m., the populace of Southern Alberta will acclaim Canada's King and Queen on their two hours visit to the foothills city. Theirs has been a triumphal tour since they landed at Quebec nine days ago, and brief though their stay is to be in Calgary, the people are thronging thereto from every town, village and hamlet of the southern part of the province.

A week later, Friday, June 2, they will spend seven hours in Edmonton, on their return trip from the Pacific coast, where another enthusiastic and loyal welcome will greet them in the capital city of the province.

Since Confederation of the Canadian provinces, five sovereigns have ruled the British Empire, now known as the Commonwealth of Nations. Queen Victoria was in the midst of her long and glorious reign when the Fathers of Confederation brought about unity in the Canadian provinces from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and she was followed in 1901 by King Edward VII, her eldest son. Next in 1911, came beloved King George V, following the death of his father. On the death of George V, who with Queen Mary, helped greatly to cement the loyalty of the peoples of the Empire, Edward VIII., now known as the Duke of Windsor, was crowned King, but after a short reign, he abdicated and the burdens of the kingly office were undertaken by the present monarch, King George VI., with his loving wife, Queen Elizabeth.

Not as king and queen alone, but also as a splendid example of British home life, are the King and Queen so warmly and enthusiastically welcomed throughout Canada. They are of no class, they are above politics, the King is the symbolic head of the Commonwealth, and the guardian of freedom and democracy in its truest form. Above all, he is intensely human, interested in the welfare of his people equally as much as in the higher affairs of State. Canada is honored in being the first of the self-governing nations of the Empire to receive a visit from its king and queen. The unprecedented manner in which they have been welcomed is a tribute not only to their popularity and the devotion of the people to the high ideals maintained by the British royal family during the past century, but also it indicates the loyalty of Canada to the form of government which it enjoys, inaugurated by the Fathers of Confederation, whereby two peoples, French and English, live side by side, and each vies with the other in extending a welcome to King George and Queen Elizabeth.

Coleman First Aiders Go To Calgary

Seventeen Coleman First Aiders who volunteered their services to the authorities at Calgary during the visit of the King and Queen, will report to Calgary First Aid on Friday morning.

Included in the party will be R. M. Greenhalgh, A. McCulloch, J. M. Rush-ton, W. Lonsbury, T. Brennan, E. X. Hill, J. Lloyd, J. Kilgannon, H. Turner, E. Hill, H. Parkinson, J. Goulding, J. Simla, J. Jasinsky, J. Maurer, T. Morgan and L. Richards. The men will take their own equipment to the city.

On Friday evening 750 First Aiders from all over Southern Alberta have been invited to a banquet which is being given in their behalf.

JUNIOR RED CROSS HOSPITAL ENLARGED

The Alberta division, upon the request of the provincial government, increased the capacity of its Junior Red Cross children's hospital in Calgary from 25 to 50 beds, in order that the hospital might give treatment to the large number of children there were many more than usual in the province.

University Objectives

Quality rather than quantity should be the objective of the universities of the country.

At all times it is of greater importance to the nation that a few brilliant students capable of exercising leadership be graduated from the institutions of higher learning than a large number with mediocre attainments and of average capacity.

It is of still greater importance in times of national and international stress, like the present, when unemployment threatens the foundations of democracy from within and when freedom and liberty are endangered by external forces.

Under such conditions the quality of leadership cannot be too high and it is not too much to expect that the universities and the product of the universities be capable of giving the guidance which the people of the country require in their efforts to solve these pressing problems.

It is an oft heard complaint that governments in the democratic countries are not effectively tackling the major problems but are content to reflect the ever changing confusion of mass opinion with an eye on the target of political expedience, instead of mapping out a definite program with a definite objective, based on historically tested principles, and adhering to it.

If such an indictment is well founded the importance of the work ahead of the universities in turning out students who will be capable of giving sound leadership and of attacking problems as they arise with wisdom and clear perspective, plus the character and grit necessary to prevent defection from the direct path to the goal by every breeze that blows, can hardly be exaggerated.

The Main Objective

When it is remembered that the universities draw on the public purse for considerable sums annually for partial subsistence, the people have a right to expect much of these institutions. They have a right to expect these institutions to select the raw materials with the utmost care to ensure a high quality finished product. They have a right to expect to curate a high quality finished product. They have a right to expect the curricula to be geared up to the level of such an objective. They have a right to demand that the teaching staff be selected with high ideals in view.

It is true that in recent years some steps have been taken by the Western universities to meet the demand for quality in the student body. This has been done by stiffening, to some extent, educational requirements as entry qualifications and by imposing additional restrictions governing the process of weeding out the unfit and the unprofitable during tenure.

It is also true that economic conditions during the past few years have contributed to the process of reducing the number of students passing through and graduating from Western universities, but this factor, of itself, has not necessarily been responsible for advancing the quality of the student body at the expense of quantity.

Since fewer can find the necessary means to send their progeny to the universities during periods of financial stress, the demand might be expected to be in the other direction on that very account. It leaves the doors of the universities open only to a smaller number whose parents can afford to send them. In some cases a percentage go because it is the "smart thing to do," because a parchment is expected to yield dividends in social advantages or simply because a university education is expected to pave the way for contacts which may be useful subsequently in business.

When times are prosperous it is difficult for the offspring of the commerce paratively poor to secure a university education, no matter how high may be their attainments, no matter how well equipped mentally they may be to make the most of the opportunities afforded. When times are hard, the difficulties in the way of educational advancement for such students are multiplied ten fold or their opportunities are entirely obliterated, except for the very small number for whom scholarships are available. Thus, the country loses potential services which might have been of inestimable value.

Based On Scholarships

Taking a long range view of the problems of the universities, of the need of the country for a body of young men and women in training for future leadership and other related factors, it would appear to be a paying proposition to make wider provision for a greater number of scholarships tenable at the universities, from public funds, provided sufficient funds are not available from private sources.

Coupled with the provision of more public scholarships a further tightening of entrance requirements might well be made as well as the imposition of higher progressive qualifications during the period of studentship. The whole objective of such changes as might be made would be, of course, to make university education available to an increasing percentage of those who could reap the greatest benefit therefrom, not only for themselves but for the country at large, and to a declining proportion of those who would make use of such advantages for other and less worthy purposes.

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will love you to dance and make love. BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls who are full of pep. So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Five Years' Work

True Relief Map Of Canada Has Been Completed

Following five years' work, a true relief map of Canada, weighing 1½ tons and standing 5½ feet high with a floor radius of 11 feet, has been completed by members of the topographical survey in the Mines and Resources Department at Ottawa.

Lakes, rivers and oceans surrounding the Dominion are shown in blue, against sand colored earth. Glaciers are marked by broken glass and transcontinental railways are outlined in red in the large map which illustrates the broad physical features of Canada in exact proportion to the actual curvature of the earth. Relief has been exaggerated 15 times to give sufficient contrast between the areas of little relief and the mountainous terrain.

The map is made up of 45 sections, each of which was built of cardboard from the contours of 10 degree projection sheets. The completed section was shellacked, waxed and moulded in plaster from which the final casting was produced. The unit as a whole is panelled in mahogany and illuminated by cross lighting to bring out the finer points of relief.

What Makes Us Go

Professor Thinks Gelatin Mixture Triples A Man's Energy

Professor George B. Ray, head of the department of physiology of Long Island College of Medicine, announces plain gelatin mixed with a little orange juice or water will double and triple a man's energy.

This is great news for hikers, marchers, marathon dancers and those who like to walk around the reservoir in Central Park every morning and then have a nap at the office. Perhaps this is a considerable contribution to science if, as Dr. Ray suggests, it's the glycin in the gelatin that does the trick. We wouldn't know, offhand.

Anyway, Dr. Ray and the Long Island College of Medicine are entitled to due credit in the long effort to find out what makes us go.

And a good deal of credit, we think, ought to go to those devoted investigators who swallowed their quarts for "was it lit?" of gelatin soup day after day and then pedaled away on stationary bicycles for hours on end to see whether the gelatin made any difference. Research, it seems, is not altogether brain work. —New York Post.

Exile From Austria

Archduke Franz Joseph Has Job And Is Quite Happy

An exiled Hapsburg who does not moan for the good old Imperial days is Archduke Franz Joseph, who got himself a job. The archduke, who is an uncle of Otto, claimant to the Austrian throne, was in London recently from Cannes on a business visit. His job is to promote tourist traffic. Recently he has been publishing Britain in India and Egypt.

Archduke Franz Joseph, who has the title of a Prince of Bourbon, is married to a beautiful Viennese Baroness. She shares her husband's passion for travelling and often accompanies him in his aeroplane. He is the pilot, she the wireless operator. Like him she speaks six languages including English, which they both learned during their stay in England last year. They are exiles from Austria. The Archduke has not been in Austria since 1918. Most of his time has been spent in Holland, England, France and Spain. On his mother's side he is related to the Spanish royal family, and he became a Spanish citizen in 1927. —London Daily Sketch.

Says Teeth And Tonsils Not As Common A Source Of Infection As Believed

A warning against disease treatments by "tooth and tonsil jerkers" was issued before the 90th annual meeting of the American Medical Association.

Contrary to popular and medical opinion the teeth and tonsils are not as common a source as is believed of infection causing rheumatism, arthritis and similar diseases, Dr. Robert Reimann and Dr. Paul Havens declared.

Frequently tonsil and tooth infections disappear when a person with a general infection improves. Dr. Reimann added, indicating that the mouth and throat symptoms are a result, rather than a cause, of such conditions.

Woman Juror Had Open Mind On Capital Punishment

The Judge was about to hear an action in the High Court when a woman juror rose and requested exemption from service on a plea that she was a non-believer in capital punishment.

"But this is a civil action," the Judge explained, "and has nothing whatever to do with capital punishment. It is brought by a woman who gave her husband two hundred pounds to buy her a fur coat. The husband, instead of buying the coat, lost the money gambling, and now his wife is suing him for the return of her two hundred pounds."

"Oh, indeed, is that it?" replied the juror relieved. "Then I've no objection to serving."

She pondered a moment and then added thoughtfully: "And, perhaps, after all, I was wrong about capital punishment."

An Honest Man

Justice Is Handed Out To Man Who Impressed The Court

Mr. James Dunbar, of Huron County, is a poor man and with a minimum of education. Yet he is possessed of an advantage that money cannot buy nor education acquire. He is honest.

This characteristic stood Mr. Dunbar in good stead in a Goderich court when he attempted to break his uncle's will. The story briefly is that, in 1913, the uncle made a will bequeathing his farm to another nephew. Then 23 years ago, Mr. Dunbar went to live with his uncle on the promise that the farm would come to him. He took with him his life savings, $1,200, worked without pay since then, and spent his savings. The uncle evidently intended to make over the will, but failed to do so.

Breaking a will is no easy thing to do. But Mr. Dunbar did it. How? By convincing Mr. Justice Godfrey of his absolute honesty; that the uncle had intended changing the will. Furthermore, he had 24 neighbors to testify to his honesty.

Mr. Justice Godfrey said he had never been more impressed by any man than by this 67-year-old weather-beaten farmer, dressed in a 34-year-old suit, and without money or education. It is a high tribute. —Windsor Star.

SELECTED RECIPES

SHREDDED WHEAT STUFFING

6 crushed Shredded Wheat Biscuits
2 tablespoons minced parsley
¼ cup butter
½ cup finely diced celery
1 to 4 tablespoons diced onion
1 cup oysters or sliced mushrooms (may be omitted)
1 cup cooked and drained rice (wild rice is excellent)
1 teaspoon to 1 tablespoon poultry seasoning
½ cup stock from cooked giblets (chopped giblets may be included)
Salt and pepper to taste.

Place the crushed Shredded Wheat Biscuits and the parsley in a mixing bowl. Heat the butter to bubbling in a frying pan, add the diced celery and onion, and cook gently until the onion is soft and yellow. If mushrooms are included, they may also be sautéed in the butter mixture. Stir the rice into the sautéed onion and celery mixture, then add to the Shredded Wheat and the oysters (if included) poultry seasoning, and stock from the giblets. Season to taste with salt and pepper, and mix thoroughly. Stuff the bird or joint and proceed with the roasting.

CHEESE DROP BISCUITS

2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
¼ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons butter or other shortening
1 cup grated Canadian cheese
1 cup milk (about)
Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Cut in shortening and cheese. Add milk gradually, stirring until soft dough is formed. Drop from teaspoon on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) 12 to 15 minutes. Makes 18 biscuits.

ARMS USELESS ON A WET DAY

Rheumatic Pains Relieved By Kruschen

Here is a noteworthy instance of the manner in which damp weather can affect the joints of one who is subject to rheumatic pains.

"I had been suffering from rheumatism very badly," a man writes, "and had such pains in my joints that I could hardly bear it, on a wet day especially. It pained me terribly to use my arms, and I was hardly able to work. I tried two different remedies, but I was still as bad after the treatment."

"Then I was told to try Kruschen Salts, which quickly brought relief. So of course I have kept on with it, and I am now much better and have never felt so fit for years. I used to feel so miserable and sluggish, but now it is a pleasure to be able to work." —S.B.

The pain and stiffness of rheumatism are often caused by uric acid crystals in the muscles and joints. The numerous salts in Kruschen assist in stimulating the internal organs to healthy, regular activity, and help them to eliminate excess uric acid.

Great War Cripple Spent Years Looking At Building

Alfred Henry Loader Blake, a helpless war cripple, spent most of his waking life after 1916 at the window of his home in Eddlestone, England. He used to draw sketches of St. Andrew's Church opposite. That, and the street, were almost all he could see.

He was attended by his housekeeper, Miss Scarrow, and a nurse, Mrs. Miller. Whenever a blinded man passed in the street he would send out a gift, in money or in kind.

Recently the will of Mr. Blake, who died in January, aged 54, was published.

He left £1,000, from his £5,300 estate to help repair the fabric of St. Andrew's church.

Greyhound Miss Scarrow said: "Mr. Blake was a kindhearted man naturally, but his suffering in the war made him more so."

His ambition had been to become an architect, but the war ended all that. He spent many hours drawing and planning dream cottages and churches.

Iceland shipped products valued at $1,200,000 to the U.S. in 1938.

Tension In Danzig As German Is Shot By Polish Chauffeur

Free City Of Danzig.—A Pole shot and killed a German citizen of Danzig, marking the first loss of life in the current tension between Germany and Poland over the Free City and Pomerania (the Polish corridor).

The Danzig senate in a formal note immediately demanded damages and a public apology from the Polish government for the incident which it said "is likely to influence gravely Danzig-Polish relations."

As a sequel, an angry mob surrounded the building in Pischel where Polish inspectors live. The inspectors called Danzig for help. They reported the mob was yelling that "the killing must be paid for in blood."

Pischel lies on the Vistula river in the tip of the triangle, where free city, Polish and East Prussian territory meet.

After two hours the mob broke up, however, and according to official reports from both Polish and Danzig sides no damage was done.

The slaying of the Danziger, a 43-year-old butcher named Gustav Gruehner, took place between midnight and 1 a.m., Sunday, and the man charged with firing the two death shots was the driver of an automobile carrying three Polish officials.

Warsaw, Poland protested to the senate of the Free City of Danzig against an attack on a Polish customs post by a crowd it charged was led by "unformed members of Nazi units."

The incident precipitated a clash in which the Polish chauffeur of Danzig, Polish under-commissioner in Danzig, shot and killed a Danzig German.

A Polish communiqué said the attack constituted "an obvious and serious violation of one of the fundamental Polish rights in Danzig, namely the exercising of customs control."

Two notes regarding the incident were presented to the Danzig senate by the Polish commissioner of the free city. One reviewed the incident and the other contained Polish demands for:

1. A thorough investigation and punishment of the culprits.
2. Indemnity for damages.
3. A clear statement on the part of the Danzig senate as to what guarantees it is making to ensure order and security for both Polish officials and the Polish population in Danzig.

"On the arrival of the Polish under-commissioner," the communiqué reported, "the crowd began shouting at his automobile, the chauffeur of which, in order to defend his life, shot and killed one of the assailants after he had fired several warning shots."

For Use Of Railways

Berlin.—While the German press continued to arouse Poland the government came quietly to an amicable understanding with Germany's eastern neighbor. Germany paid a 12,500,000 zloty ($2,375,000) debt for use of Polish railways across the Polish corridor in railway and medical supplies, and the Polish government accepted the payment.

U.S. Replies To Japan

Naval Forces Land To Protect International Settlement

Washington.—The United States refused to grant for the time being Japan's demand for increased Japanese representation in the international settlement at Shanghai.

On instructions from the state department, the United States ambassador at Tokyo, Joseph C. Grew, delivered a memorandum to this effect at the Japanese foreign office at about the time American naval forces were landing at another international settlement—at Amoy.

The diplomatic communication answering a Japanese memo of May 3, declared:

"The government of the United States would be ready, as it has been in the past, to become a party to friendly and orderly negotiations properly instituted and conducted regarding any needed revision in the land regulations of the international settlement at Shanghai."

"The government of the United States is constrained to point out, however, that conditions in the Shanghai area are, from its viewpoint, so far from normal at the present time that there is totally lacking a basis for a discussion looking toward an orderly settlement of the complicated problems involved which would be reasonably fair to all concerned."

Visits Flower Show

Queen Mary Assuming Share Of Royal Functions During Absence Of Their Majesties

London.—Queen Mary, assuming her share of royal functions during the absence of Their Majesties in Canada, walked over the muddy grounds to view exhibits at the Chelsea flower show and admired a displayed soldier's tattooing.

When Queen Mary insisted on making a complete tour of the flower show despite a heavy rain, officials appointed two "Sir Walter Raleighs" to precede her with planks to bridge the muddy pathways.

Visiting the disabled soldiers' exhibition with other members of the royal family, the Queen Mother asked a Markham, Royal Irish regiment veteran, to roll up his sleeve so she could better see the tattooed decorations on his arms.

"The Queen was very interested in them and thought they were fine," Markham said.

Spy Scare In Germany

Berlin.—Germany is experiencing a country-wide "spy scare" similar to that which swept the Soviet Union and resulted in hundreds of executions. All the means at the disposal of the reich's propaganda machinery have been called into play to warn German citizens to avoid contacts with strangers and foreigners.

Immigration Commissioner Dies

Winnipeg.—Former Dominion commissioner of immigration and well-known for his newspaper work in eastern Canada, John Bruce Walker, 79, died here following a lengthy illness. Mr. Walker was born in Tiron, Scotland. He came to Canada in 1881 and joined the staff of the Toronto Globe. He retired in 1929.

Anti-Roumanian Demonstrations Held Throughout Bulgaria

Budapest.—Anti-Roumanian demonstrations are taking place throughout Bulgaria. They followed a statement by the German minister in Sofia that "we are always thinking of Bulgaria's revisionist claims."

A sudden turn in the old Croatian campaign for autonomy in Yugoslavia was seen by some observers as a sign of Italian-German pressure on Yugoslavia to tighten her relations with the axis powers. Dr. Vlado Machek, the Croat leader, left Zagreb "for health reasons" just as Yugoslav Premier Cvetkovski was to arrive with new proposals to settle Croatian autonomy demands.

British United Press says the Warsaw correspondent of the London Daily Herald, quoted frontier reports as describing numerous evidences of unrest in the Czech provinces of Bohemia and Moravia. One report was that a well known Prague lawyer named Sekanina and three former Czech deputies had been arrested and sent to a concentration camp in Germany in connection with the discovery of a plot against the life of Adolf Hitler.

At Valenciennes, France, police disclosed they are holding a German who said he had brought into France copies of German fortifications plans at Berlin and the Saxon town of Koenigsbrueck. They said he identified himself as Heinrich Rothert, 27, officer in Chancellor Hitler's black-shirt elite guard.

The man, police said, told them he had deserted his regiment because he was dissatisfied with the Nazi regime and wanted to enlist in the French Foreign Legion. 2308

Army Gunners Killed

Second Explosion In Woolwich Arsenal In Two Days

London.—The war office announced five army gunners were killed and six injured in an explosion at Woolwich arsenal, the second in two days. The explosion occurred during the loading of a 3.7-inch anti-aircraft gun. An investigation was begun.

The victims, all connected with the Woolwich scientific military school, were standing near a gun at the stop-buts of the artillery range when the blast occurred.

The dead Battery Sergeant-Major H. H. Constantine, Staff Sergeant E. R. Brown, Gunners C. Shepherd, W. Griffiths, and J. Barron, of Breckley Gaudes, Eltham.

Quartermaster-Sergeant P. McGill was injured seriously. Gunner P. W. Smith and men named H. R. well and Samuels also were injured. Two persons were killed and two injured in an explosion in the Woolwich arsenal's cartridge shop.

Restrict Activities

British, U.S. And French Forces Protect Amoy's International Settlement

Amoy, China.—Outnumbered exactly three to one by combined British-United States-French forces, a Japanese landing party in Kulangsu, further restricted its activities.

The 42 Japanese bluejackets were concentrated at the Japanese hospital in Kulangsu. They had ceased attempting to patrol streets of the island in Amoy harbor and their search for the slayers of Hung Lih-Soh, whose assassination was given as the reason for the landing in Kulangsu, was pursued quietly.

Forty-two French marines were landed from the cruiser Emile Berlin to join parties of the same number of British and American sailors from the cruisers Birmingham and Marblehead put ashore on Kulangsu.

Liberal Administration Is Swept Back Into Power

Charlottetown.—The Liberal administration that has governed Prince Edward Island without an opposition for four years swept back into power on the flow of a political tide diminished only slightly since it washed the legislature empty of Conservatives in 1935.

Under generalship of youthful Premier Thane A. Campbell, the government clung to at least 25 of the 30 legislature seats as the island electors gave the administration a continuing mandate.

The thin opposition ranks included Dr. W. J. P. MacMillan, Conservative leader and former premier, turned out of office in 1935. But they also included one man—R. R. Bell—whose unofficial plurality over his Liberal opponent was a single vote, pointing to a certain recount demand.

One other Conservative of those assured a seat was W. A. Stewart. Dr. MacMillan's running mate in the 5th Queen's district. Regaining the seat he lost in 1935, Stewart ousted T. W. L. Frowse, minister without portfolio in the last legislature.

At World's Fair

The King And Queen To Be Well Guarded During Visit

New York.—King George and Queen Elizabeth will be guarded by 2,500 uniformed city policemen, 400 detectives and 800 world's fair patrolmen, in addition to large contingents of secret service men and Scotland Yard operatives, during the three hours and 40 minutes they will pass at the New York world's fair on June 10, city officials made known.

An additional 4,000 policemen and detectives will guard them along the routes they will travel through the city on their way to the exposition.

His Majesty's Speech At The Ceremony Of Assent To Bills

Ottawa.—Following is the text of the King's speech in the senate at the ceremony of assent to bills. Honorable members of the senate. Members of the House of Commons:

I thank you sincerely for your addresses received on my arrival at Quebec. The Queen and I deeply appreciate your loyal and affectionate messages.

I am very happy that my visit to Canada affords me the opportunity of meeting, in parliament assembled, the members of both houses. No ceremony could more completely symbolize the free and equal association of the nations of our commonwealth. As my father said, on the occasion of his silver jubilee, the unity of the British empire is no longer expressed by the supremacy of the time-honored parliament that sits at Westminster. It finds expression to-day in the free association of nations enjoying common principles of government, a common attachment to ideals of peace and freedom, and bound together by a common allegiance to the crown.

The Queen and I have been deeply touched by the warmth of the welcome accorded us since our arrival in Canada. We are greatly looking forward to visiting each of the provinces, and before our return, to pay a brief visit to the United States.

It is my earnest hope that my present visit may give my Canadian people a deeper appreciation of their unity as a nation. I hope also that my visit to the United States will help to maintain the very friendly relations existing between that great country and the nations of the commonwealth.

The visits, like the one recently made by the Queen and myself to the continent of Europe, will, we trust, be viewed as an expression of the spirit of our peoples which seeks ardently for closer friendship and better relations not only with our kith and kin but with the peoples of all nations and races.

Honorable members of the senate: Members of the House of Commons:

May the blessing of Divine Providence rest upon your labors and upon my realm of Canada.

Triple Military Alliance

Britain Modifies Suggestions For Russian Collaboration

London.—Great Britain has so modified her suggestions for Russian collaboration in Europe's anti-aggression front it would not surprise observers here if eventually she accepted the Soviet's original plan for a triple military alliance.

Extent of the modifications in the British plan are not known, but it is reported they were drafted to meet the Russian complaint that Britain's original suggestion was not sufficiently reciprocal.

Russia's proposals are understood to involve an outright military pact among the Soviet, Great Britain, France and possibly Poland.

Purging Reich Army

Paris.—Chancellor Hitler and Field Marshal Goring continue "purging" the reich army high command of those officers who oppose their "fighting war" strategy, with five prominent commanders dismissed in the past six weeks.

The Royal Visit To U.S. To Improve The Ties Of Friendship

Washington.—Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador to the United States, held the first press conference in his life to tell correspondents the sole political purpose of the visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth to the United States was

"to improve the ties of friendship with your country."

Sir Ronald, facing about 30 reporters, said the royal visit was primarily been arranged as a visit to Canada and "the visit to the United States was not at the fore at that time in the minds of the King and Queen. But once the visit was arranged to Canada, its extension to the United States was the most natural thing in the world."

"The purpose of the visit here is not primarily political, although it is perfectly obvious that when the King visits a foreign country part of his purpose is to improve the ties of friendship as far as he possibly can. There is no more political purpose in the visit than that."

Answering a question, he said it was "inconceivable that the King would not have conversations with Secretary (of state) Hull during his visit."

It was assumed the ambassador meant that in the natural course of events His Majesty would have an informal chat with the secretary of state, senior member of the Roosevelt cabinet.

There will be no press conference of any sort by the King, he said. When a correspondent suggested that perhaps His Majesty might like to hold one, Sir Ronald replied, "I don't think so."

He said the King would not make any speeches here but would pronounce a short toast at the state dinner at the White House.

Asked whether American men should bow from the waist in meeting the King, Sir Ronald replied, "I think they might do what I do when I meet the president. I behave in a suitable and respectful manner."

"I would certainly give a bow. Whether it comes from my waist or not, I don't know."

THE COLEMAN JOURNAL

Published Every Thursday at Coleman, Alberta. Membership in Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association and Alberta Div. C.W.N.A.
H. T. Halliwell, Proprietor.

NEWSPAPERMEN are supposed to have many virtues, which they do not possess, and vices, too! We were complacently trying to gain a little wider information this week, by comparing Hitler's ideology with the record of the development of Democracy since the time of the signing of the Magna Charta in 1214 A.D. by King John, when along came a friend, in a very critical frame of mind because the council was not enforcing the building by-laws. He felt that the newspaper should take up the cudgels on this issue. In fact, we were falling down on the job.

WE appreciate the gentleman's vigilance and his desire for continued improvement all along the line. Reviewing the conversation, we remembered being told on one occasion when suggesting improvements and the enforcement of by-laws, to mind our own business, that men were elected to look after those things. It is not uncommon for a newspaper to be penalized for its advocacy of certain causes, so that one is inclined to tread, or write, rather warily; also to remember that the "soft answer turneth away wrath."

WHERE we mention the subject of the conversation referred to above, we could quite easily foresee others coming around with blood in their eyes and giving us their opinion in forcible style. The gentleman was quite right in his protest, and as a private citizen and a ratepayer has a right in a democratic community to air his views, but to put them into cold print—that's another story! However, the newspaper is looked upon as a vehicle whereby all matters concerning public welfare should be discussed, but were it to take up every contentious issue you can imagine the heck of a time the editor would have.

OWING to there being two holidays this week, our column is somewhat shortened. We have to curtail our comment but as soon as we are able to install long-contemplated improved mechanical facilities for newspaper production, we promise that improvements will be made in our newspaper service. We cannot sink into the slough of self-contentment, for such an attitude would prevent progress, and it is our ambition to print a great deal more on matters of interest for the general welfare of the community. It is well-intentioned criticism that tends to keep all of us from sinking into a rut. Seeing ourselves as others see us is a good thing to remember, and that is the reason we aim for a bigger and better newspaper.

FOR the time being, while the King and Queen are in Canada, receiving tremendous ovations, we join in the spirit of goodwill and friendly atmosphere generated by their presence.

"God save the King!"

CANADIANS BUILD TEAM FOR NEXT SEASON

Alberta Hockey League next season will be made up of probably the fastest amateur teams in Canada. All league teams have strengthened their forces, and Coleman is certainly keeping line, in fact well out in front. In addition to securing the services of the former Stanley Cup player, Duke Keats, as coach, the local executive is negotiating for several additional players. It is a little early to announce the personnel of the reorganized team, but the executive is doing what they think necessary to assure Coleman worthy representation in a league which bids fair to be tougher than ever when the next hockey season opens.

See that your printing presents a good appearance. It takes experienced printers to turn out good work. Always order from The Journal.

THE GOOSE AND THE GANDER

One-sided arguments never were fair, and the Lloydminster Times, in a pungent editorial, takes up the cudgel and applies it to the Retail Section of the Lloydminster Board of Trade for a recent resolution passed. The article starts off with the old proverb, "What is good for the goose is good for the gander!"

Apparently the Board of Trade committee held a meeting to consider ways and means of coping with peddlers and door-to-door canvassers. They felt that this manner of doing business was unfair competition to the merchants of the city, who are paying taxes and otherwise spending their good money at home. "They have erected modern buildings," the editorial states, "and employ local help, while the peddler goes from house to house unmolested, not paying one cent in the way of taxes; not building up the town by erecting a place of business, or helping the local employment situation." The opinion of the meeting was that the City Council could do something to control peddlers, and to protect the merchants.

The Times editor presents another side of the picture. "What does the reverse side show?" he asks. "It is common knowledge that a large number of commercial travellers canvass the town every week, not only for groceries, dry goods, fruits, tobacco, etc.—commodities that have to be shipped in—but also for goods that are produced here such as flour, bread, flowers, printing, counter check books, etc. What is the attitude of the merchants towards these salesmen? Do they turn a deaf ear to their pleadings and support the local industries, or does the traveller leave with a nice order? Instead of the local producer getting a little profit on goods he could produce the traveller gets a commission. Surely the same power conferred in the town charter to protect the local retailer should also protect the local industry."

Regular Meeting of Town Council

The regular meeting of the town council was held in the council chamber on Tuesday evening. Present were Mayor Pattinson, Councillors Antrobus, White, Chapman, Atkinson, Baloch and Kerr.

The highways department, replying to a letter from the council, stated that the road between Crows' Nest and Fincher Creek would be given consideration re hard surfacing, but it was very doubtful if funds for such work would be available this year.

A letter will be sent John Salvador informing him that in future his tractor will be prohibited from travelling on the town's hard-surfaced roads while equipped with flanges.

A petition signed by thirty taxpayers of Second street was received, protesting against the nuisance caused by Sam Sago's barn in which is stabled horses. The petition stated that the stench from the barn during the summer months was unbearable. The health officer and Chief of Police were ordered to investigate and bring back a report.

The 1938 caveat on certain town properties was studied. Some properties have been redeemed while others were only partially paid. A list of such properties was authorized to appear for sale in the Alberta Gazette and The Coleman Journal.

The Works and Property committee were authorized to inspect some property in West Coleman, as well as the lot recently bought by Mr. Harold Willetts and lots on the flat.

A letter from Harold Turner, protesting against the nuisance and damage created by boys playing ball in the avenue adjoining his lot on Second street, was read and will be attended to by the Chief of Police.

A letter from Edmonton soliciting the council to purchase the book, "The Case for Alberta," was received and it was agreed to purchase the book at a cost of 75c.

The Chief of Police was authorized to purchase a new uniform and rain coat.

Much discussion was given to the subject of school assessment and taxation. By legislation passed by the provincial government, taxpayers living in the incorporated area of the town must be assessed 100% value of their property while taxpayers living outside the incorporated area are only assessed 62 2/3%. All taxpayers are levied the same mill rate. Due to the unfairness of this set-up, it is expected a joint meeting of the council and school board will be held next week to discuss the matter in detail. It is possible a delegation will be sent to Edmonton to place the unfairness of such legislation before the proper authorities.

ROAD IN BAD CONDITION

The stretch of highway immediately west of Crows' Nest lake is in a dangerous condition. Large gaping holes, easily a foot in depth, are common, with neither red flag or other danger signal to warn motorists.

It will be rough riding over this stretch until it is fixed. Automobilists through their organization should make a strong protest.

A total of 1800 persons took part in the recent musical festival at Blairmore.

The financial report of Coleman Canadians hockey club, and the musical festival committee report are held over till next week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McDonald and daughters Penelope, of Cardston hospital staff, and Isabel, left this morning for Hamilton, Ont., by auto, to visit Mrs. McDonald's sister for a month.

The annual meeting of the general committee of the musical festival will be held in the Greenhill hotel on Tuesday, June 20, at 8 p.m., and all interested in the carrying on of the festival, non-members as well as members, will be welcomed.

A weekly newspaper publisher many years in Saskatchewan, H. C. Darrach, called on The Journal this week. He found conditions becoming so "tough" in that province because of the continued drought years, that he decided to seek a more congenial clime on the Pacific coast. Here's wishing him good luck.

Many from Coleman left today to join in the welcome to the King and Queen, including Mayor and Mrs. George Pattinson, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. McBurney, Mr. and Mrs. George Kellock, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Eph Hill, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Rippon, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. C. McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. George Brown and Olive.

Bud Clark and Buck, his companion through good times and bad, also journeyed to the city to swell the cheers for the royal visitors.

A very welcome gift from Mr. O. E. S. Whiteside to the anniversary offering of the United church was received last week. Not only was the gift acceptable, but it was very pleasant to be remembered by an old friend and former member of the congregation.

"Before I cash this check," said the cashier, "may I ask you if you have anything by which you can be identified?"

The young woman turned color, faltered, and replied: "Well—er—I have a mole on my left knee."

The teams include Fernie, Elk Valley, Michel-Natal, Coleman, Blairmore and Hillcrest.

The Pucksters will play their first home game at McGillivray's Sports field on Wednesday, May 31, against Hillcrest.

At the conclusion of the schedule, the two top teams will play off for the championship.

Football Season Opens

Coleman and Fernie football clubs will start the ball rolling at Fernie on Saturday. This will be Coleman's first appearance in two years, and a goodly number of local fans are expected to watch them perform. The kick-off will be at 6:15 p.m.

The outcome of Saturday's game will be a toss-up, as neither team has had the opportunity of many practices. Suffice it to say that Coleman will field a strong team and is expected to win the league championship.

On Sunday Fernie will travel to Blairmore and meet Sam McDowell's charges, whose strength is at present unknown.

Following is the league schedule:

May—

27—Coleman at Fernie.

28—Fernie at Blairmore.

Community Recreation Centre Proposed

Writer Submits Plan for Centre That Would Provide for Many Activities Throughout Year

A strong committee has been appointed to look into the matter of bettering conditions at the Crystal Rink through the raising of some $12,000, which would be used for installing an artificial plant. It is suggested that rather than spend all that money on an old building the town take the matter in hand and go a long step forward and erect a building that would centralize more sporting activities than just skating. This might be done by means of a say:

Civic Centre Tax collected monthly and at a low rate which would not be a hardship on the community.

Each wage-earning adult, 25c per month. (Adult means any wage earner).

Each wife 25c per month.
Each child over five years, 10c per month.

Maximum per family $1 per month. Tax period to be limited to total cost of building.

Donations by companies and parties in excess of total tax period would exempt them.

Business tax $2 per month.

Estimates of tax period:

840 miners @ 25c $210.00

Say 600 wives @ 25c 150.00

Say 600 children @ 10c 60.00

360 local @ 25c 90.00

300 wives @ 25c 75.00

65 business @ $2 130.00

Coal Companies 80.00

Total $795.00

This for 12 months would equal $10,000 per year.

Method of Collection:

Miners from pay statement.

Other householder on light statement.

Others from employer.

Building to house skating, curling (2 sheets), badminton hall (2 courts), and include basketball, youth training etc.

Total population would pay and total population would benefit.

Five years of tax would pay for a building that would be a credit to a progressive community.

Should think the shareholders of Crystal Rink would donate their shares to the town so that the girders of the present rink could be used.

Advantage could be taken of the government building loan as a relief project.

HOCKEY MENTOR FOR COLEMAN

Canadians are to be congratulated on engaging one of the "immortals" of hockey, Duke Keats, in his day recognized as an outstanding playmaker. His knowledge of the great game should keep Canadians in their fight for a championship next year.

"Duke" will shortly take up residence here, and all divisions of Coleman hockey should benefit by the coaching ability of the former superstar.

The younger players—junior, juvenile, high school and pee-wee—are staunch supporters of senior hockey, and watching a well-coached team in action should be of material benefit to them.

It is the plan of Canadians to have Keats oversee hockey in a general way in Coleman, and to develop local talent to fill the senior ranks for future years. The most promising of all the junior squads will be given every opportunity to show their worth and to develop under the guidance of expert coaching.

LET'S HAVE CHAMPIONSHIP HOCKEY FOR COLEMAN

The next hockey season may seem a long way off, but summer soon races away, and many Coleman people are starting to pay for their season tickets and select their seats.

Arrangements have been made with the coal companies so that seats may be paid for at the rate of 50c per pay, to be deducted through the companies' offices.

Subscription lists can be signed at any of the local hotels, post office or at The Journal office.

The following names have made application for season tickets. Get your name on the list and watch it grow.

Note: The Canadians executive will publish weekly under this heading notes of interest concerning the team and the efforts being made to build up a championship team to give southern Alberta hockey supporters thrilling entertainment next season. Keep your eye on this column every week, and give your support to the executive in their efforts to continue to provide high-class winter sport.

Bill Roughhead's Bird Won Race from Edmonton in Thrilling Contest Against Heavy Wind

The third race of the season was flown from Edmonton, 274 miles airline, on Sunday, May 14. Twelve lofts competed with 218 birds.

Liberated at 7:30 a.m. in fair weather, the birds put up a dandy race despite having to buck a stiff west wind in the latter stages.

The first batch of birds was sighted coming into Coleman from the east, and flying very low but fast against the strong west wind.

Seven or eight lofts had birds in the first arrivals, and as in the first two races the issue was decided by the fast trappers.

Bill Roughhead's bird making a fast trip gave him a win in the finest race finish this season.

The other lofts clocked in in close order with the final result as follows:

1st. W. Roughhead, 3-11-46 p.m.

2nd. W. Pryde, 3-12-28 p.m.

3rd. A. Zur, 3-13-47 p.m.

4th. T. Cornil, 3-14-45 p.m.

The prizes were donated by The Coleman Hardware, West End Meat Market, Motordrome, and Zak's Meat Market.

The next race will be flown from Lacey la Biche on May 27. The birds to be at the C.P.R. depot on May 25 at 12 noon.

This race will be a scheduled old birds' race; also a race for the Delivers Laid Cup, the year-old birds' championship trophy.

The race for the Dr. R. K. Lillie Cup and Championship of the Crows Nest Pass will be flown from Waterways on June 8, the birds to be shipped on Monday, June 5.

Those desiring to enter this race please communicate with F. Beddington, Secretary Coleman Homing Society.

Sarah Lynn felt a little shiver of appreciation. She had known it, the swift white peace, the stinging exaltation. Life would never press too close on her, on Gunnar; they wouldn't let it! They were not earth-bound, they had dominion.

Jordan played on and on, quietly now, with a conviction of serenity and permanence, and the crimson of the heart died down to a hot, gray ash. It seemed to Sarah Lynn that her heart must literally burst with its weight of surging happiness.

Gunnar let Sarah Lynn take the Hermud up alone one day and stood waiting proudly while she brought it smoothly and beautifully to earth. It was her accolade: sign and symbol of his utter trust.

"Enough of folly. We finish!"

They walked on the shore beside the blue, bright water and he took her in his arms. "So," he said, lifting his head after a long kiss, "you are fearless, also wise. You fly safely and skillfully my Hermud. I love you."

Sarah Lynn pulled herself out of his embrace to look up at him. "Gunnar, do you love me? Me?"

"I know. But I mean—is it only because I've learned to fly properly? Because I'm not afraid? Because I love the kind of things you like? Or is it—myself?"

He laughed aloud. "This is a folly, I love you because you are you—without fear, and wise, a good flier. It is answered."

"No, but"—there was a shadow in the eyes of the queer, dark Dana girl. "Don't you think we ought to care for people themselves, not for what they do? Not even for what they are?"

"It needs no thinking," he said. "But Gunnar, suppose—suppose I stopped flying?"

"Suppose you stopped flying? Enough of folly! We finish!" He kissed her again.

Lynn Dana wrote to his traveling cousin:

"I wish you were here to see them now, Sally Ann. By and by, I suppose, an inexorable calendar will catch them and clip their wings, but now they are soaring!"

"Their visit at Jordan's Tahoe lodge seemed to set them free. They are armored against everything now, even poor Cousin Adelaide. They say little of plans but I gather they are to marry in a fortnight and go at once to Norway where he has excellent prospects."

"I think at least, I suspect that they will fly the Atlantic in the Hermud, in complete security. I doubt if they will even tell me."

"Of course I shall miss them blankly, bleakly; it doesn't need your nimble and trained imagination to understand how much of flavor and fragrance will go out of things, but I shall manage to rejoice for our dark ducking hatched into an eagle's mate."

"There's something lyric, something mythical and symbolic about their romance: partly, I suppose, because of its exceptional quality, because they are looking constantly into the bright face of danger. It's hard to imagine them middle-aged and portly; I can't see beyond youth for them."

"Doubtless this is all because I'm a little low in my mind on another count. Granny is going down hill very perceptibly, and it gets me. Everything dimming—eyes, ears; a slowing down all around. She senses it of course, and she knows it. 'So, then? Sorry you're missing the skylarks but glad you are being spared the matricarch's defeat.'"

Her great-grandmother's condition was evident even to Sarah Lynn's high-keed preoccupation, and she asked with pity and protest. The old woman sent for her and went at once to the point.

"Sally Lynn, I guess I don't need to tell you I'm getting older every minute."

"I know, Great-granny." She took a small, lean claw in her warm grasp. "And I wish I could give you twenty years."

"The last ones? Think now, looking so far ahead, that you won't want 'em? Well, you will, let me tell you; you'll want 'em the worst way. And you'll know you can't have 'em. Well, I'm obliged to you for the wish."

"I'm sorry," Sarah Lynn said. "Oh, Great-granny, I wish there was something I could do!"

"Well, there's the nonsensical said briskly. 'That's what I'm getting at. That's why I sent for you. I know you're getting married and putting out, quick's ever you can, Sally Lynn, and that's right. I want you should. But there's a favor you could do me first.'"

"Anything," she said gladly. "Anything I can—"

"I should admire to have a ride in your flying-machine, Sally Lynn."

"Of course, Great-granny! I'd adore it."

"Well, there's plenty that won't," she said trimly. "When the folks hear of it there'll be the devil to pay and no pitch hot, but I don't care. I've got a hankering to see what it's like. I want to ride up in the sky and look down at birds flapping their wings that I always envied, and I want to look down at Danavale and all the foolish houses the folks built and the road your Great-gramp and I come over in the covered wagons, dirty and dog-tired and snailing along with the half-dead critters hauling us. I want to do that once before I die."

"And you shall, Great-granny dear," she told her. "I promise—cross my heart! Gunnar would loan her the Hermud for this ritual."

CHAPTER XI.

It was a pretty day. Gunnar approved the weather, and he warmly approved the project. It was exactly what he wished he might have done for Grandmother Gudrun.

Lynn Dana was deeply pleased.

"She gave you your wings, right to share them with her," he nodded.

The colony came, the protesters, at least, anxious, indignant, annoyed, and the harried Emma Waters kept saying, "Now, Miss Dana, where's your handkerchief? Miss Dana, you went and took your knitted jacket off!"

Wrapped like a little old woman, she was finally lifted into the cabin of the Hermud in Gunnar's long arms.

"I'm obliged to you, young feller," she thanked him. "And I'm real pleased about you and my child. I've set store by Sally Lynn from the first minute I laid eyes on her in the cradle. I believe you're going to make her a good husband."

"I will make her a good husband," he told her gravely, fastening the seat belt about her, getting out of the cradle. I believe you're going to make her a good husband."

The matricarch rapped on the window with her lean knuckles, and waved at her elderly daughters, her middle-aged granddaughters, and gave her shrill, cackling laugh.

"Now, go on home and don't fret," she admonished them, "you poor old things!"

Then Sarah Lynn Dana took her ship away from the pleasant landscape into the calm skies, carrying the 97-year-old pioneer, who had crossed the plains in a covered wagon to found the dynasty of Danavale.

Sarah Lynn looked back at her often and every time she smiled all over her small parchment face and waved a claw.

"I'm having the best time I ever had in all my born days, Sally Lynn," she chirped, unaware that her wavering treble did not carry over the sound of the motor. "Beats everything. Even the first day in the wagon-train, and the day we knew we was in California. My land, what would your Great-gramp think of this?"

"Well, poor Hank! I think how he come across the continent, most of the way a-foot, 'cause we lost so many critters and we had to make the loads light, and he was young and stout. I'd admire to have him here, to-day, looking down like I am. Well, forevermore, if that's all Mr. Hamilton amounts to, and the way I've been looking up at it for eighty-odd years. My, but the air's nice up here, Sally Lynn! Awful light and thin . . . Makes a body drowsy."

The flier looked back and saw her nodding. It was too bad to let her lose an instant of this thrill. She executed a mild side slip and the old woman sat up with a jerk and grinned at her.

"Hey, Sally Lynn! What you up to? Trying to spill me out?" She looked down with renewed animation but very soon she was asleep again.

Sarah Lynn waited until she had her full attention and then she inquired, both by words which she knew could not be heard and by unmistakable gestures whether she was ready to descend.

She shook her head violently. "No. No! I don't want to go down! I don't want to have it over. I want to keep on going up and up and up!"

"All right," her great-granddaughter said, and set the Hermud to climbing. After a while they encountered a soft sea of pink clouds and rose over K. It was an exquisitely lovely thing to see, but the passenger's sharp chin was resting on her breast and she appeared to be sleeping soundly. Sarah Lynn thought it a pity; there would be time if she could and to spare for napping down in the little old Dana house when she and Gunnar were far across the sea, so she did another sharp slip to rouse, but the small figure in the thick wrappings did not stir.

Sarah Lynn looked at her for a long time. Then she pulled off a glove and tossed it back. It struck the shawled shoulder smartly, but the head did not lift. Then the pilot headed for the coast, over the Santa Cruz mountains to the Pacific and flew along the shore. After a while she shook the tears out of her eyes and looked into the sunset; she thought she had never seen one so lavish, so jubilant.

She rose and climbed and set out for home and when she circled the field at San Jose she could see the diminished descendants of Sarah Ann Kittredge Dana, pioneer, in an anxious huddle, gazing up. When she set her ship down gently her head was high.

Gunnar opened the door, looking closely at her, and the rest came hurrying up. She got out slowly, without speaking, and they stared at her. She wasn't crying, but they could see traces of tears on her face.

"Mother!" some of the elderly daughters called, and "Oh, Grandma!" a middle-aged granddaughter cried out shrilly.

Then there was a wild clamor of talking and weeping of questions and reproaches. Sarah Lynn stood quietly in the midst of them, trying to keep remembering how the sunset had looked. "Great-granny," she stilled her voice, "Great-granny—didn't come down."

Sense Of Gratitude

Should Show More Appreciation Of Privileges Under Democracy

We people on this continent are an ungrateful lot. In a dictatorship, where we have more liberty, more freedom of thought, speech and action than can be found anywhere else on the globe, yet we take it all for granted.

We have more creature comforts, more domestic conveniences and better living conditions than any two nations on earth, yet it is a habit with us to be "cussin' out" the governments under which we live, and which give us all these things.

We are not really discontented. We are merely exercising our right of free speech and criticizing the institution, when we should be using our right of suffrage to put into office men who will carry out the spirit of that institution.

But most of all we need a keener and deeper sense of gratitude for the blessings which are ours. Let us have thanksgiving and appreciation for our good fortune, good fortune which has been ours so long that we forgot to appreciate it—Kiwian Magazine.

YOUR DAILY LIFE NEED NEVER BE DULL

Philosophy Teaches Art Of Living

"Is this all there is to life—just one dull task after another?" How many times have you asked yourself this question?

The greatest philosophers answer. They have discovered that behind the petty round of daily duties lies the secret of a fuller, richer life.

"Think not so much of what you lack as of what you already have," said Marcus Aurelius, the great Roman philosopher—and that gives you the key.

What pleasure you can extract from everyday experiences, how you can turn a humdrum life into a glowing, delightful one is told by Lin Yutang, a witty Chinese of our own day. There is an art, he says, in daily living—and you will find he is right.

Other philosophers too have a message for you. Ralph Waldo Emerson, the beloved American philosopher, showed that even grief can be an enriching experience.

No matter what your life may be, the truths of philosophy are an ever-present guide and comfort. Our 32-page booklet gives the essence of the wisdom of Plato, Aristotle, Epicurus, other great thinkers—ancient and modern. Read and follow their inspiring advice.

The following booklets are also available at 15c in coins each:

146—"House Course in New Ballroom Dances."

128—"Developing Your Personality."

Assisting The Indians

Indian Community Gardens And Farms Make Good

Community gardens and farms on Indian reserves in Canada are proving successful both from an economic and health viewpoint, according to the Indian Affairs Branch of the Department of Mines and Resources Ottawa.

By providing a plentiful supply of vegetables, the community gardens have made possible a more varied diet for the Indians which has resulted in a general improvement in their physical condition.

Community gardens on the reserve have also served to stimulate the interest of the Indians in their individual gardens. In one agency, before the advent of the community garden, 3,900 Indians raised only about 2,000 bushels of vegetables in a year. With the introduction of the community garden, 4,500 bushels were produced in it the first year and 5,000 bushels of vegetables were grown in the individual gardens of the Indians. So the total production of the agency was increased to 20,000 bushels. At first large root cellars were made to store the produce but later the Indians commenced to dig cellars of their own, and the community root houses are now used only for the surplus stores and seed.

The first step in the introduction of community gardens to the Indian reserves is the education of the Indians to the idea. When this has been accomplished the management of the gardens can be entirely the work of the natives. The Chief and Councillors of the tribe act as overseers and appoint suitable Indians as foremen. At the end of the season a committee is formed for the distribution of the crop. A record is kept of the work done by each Indian, and those who do not work do not share in the proceeds.

Community farms so far established are also producing excellent results. The Indians receive food supplies in return for their work on the farm, which help considerably to make them self-sufficient.

Timber

Largest Oak

Free in Wales, 900 Years Old, Contained 2,000 Cubic Feet Of

The park at Powis Castle on the Welsh marches has long been famous for its trees, including three oaks which the Royal Arboricultural Society has certified to be the biggest in Europe. Last week the largest of the trio fell, what a mighty fall it must have been—over 2,000 cubic feet of timber crashing to the ground!

To give some idea of the size of this giant, estimated to have lived 900 years, it may be said that an oak containing a mere 60 cubic feet is usually considered a good size tree, and 100 cubic feet a large one. Multiply the last figure by 20, and the colossal proportions of the Powis Castle oak will be realized—Country Life, London.

New Regulation Governs Erection Of Factories In German Reich

In the German Reich factories are not allowed to be built without a thought as to where the population attracted will live.

Plants must be built with a view to usefulness and defense and must not clutter up big places. Many are even being built partly underground. It is considered that by 1950 Berlin will be down to a million population, the remainder living in the suburbs outside—Financial Post.

Year-Old-Tragedy Still A Mystery

A Year Ago Tomorrow Since Bobby Glendenning has Almost Instantly Killed by a Rifle Bullet

Tomorrow, Friday, May 26, will be just one year since Coleman's most baffling mystery-killing took place, when 21-year-old Bobby Glendenning, while repairing an automobile at the rear of his parents' home in West
Coleman, was killed almost instantly by a .22 rifle. From that day to this, despite the most searching enquiry by R.C.M.P., the holding of a coroner's inquiry, the examination of hundreds of bullets fired from rifles collected by the police, and tracing of the slightest clues that might lead to a solution of the mystery, the secret of who fired the fatal shot is still locked in someone's heart.

At the inquest the evidence of seven witnesses who were on the spot when Glendenning was shot furnished no light on the mystery. Two 13-year-old boys were standing not more than four feet from Glendenning when he slumped on being shot, and Joe Jenkins was working right alongside of him, yet they could not tell any more of where the shot came from than someone miles away.

Though the R.C.M.P. worked most assiduously on the case and it is still open for frequent reports, the mystery still baffles all who try and elucidate how and why he should have been killed in such a thickly populated area, yet nobody could discover anyone who had fired a gun in the vicinity.
